

He Said/She Said Role-plays

You and your partner are in a restaurant. You are having an argument. You get louder and louder. A waiter is very kind, but gets angry. What is the argument about, what happens? Does the waiter fix the problem; ask the couple to leave, or something else?

You are on a blind date. You have never met him/her before. You ask many questions and have a nice time....BUT his mother/father meets you by accident. They do not like you date. How do you handle the problem?

You and your partner have been together for 3 years. You want to get married. You arrive at your parent's house and tell them the news. What is their reaction? Do they like or hate your partner? Also, your parents have some surprising news for you too. What happens?

You and your friends are at the mall shopping. You see a really person, but your friends likes the same person? Do you fight? Share? What happens? Also, the other person decides he doesn't like either of you, how do they say the news?

You are at an onsen OR coffee shop with your best friends. You are talking about boys/girls. One of your friends says that he/she is gay...and likes you. You have a very bad reaction at first. What does your other friend do? (Maybe the gay friend has a difficult time saying the truth.)

You and your child are at the park. If your child is a boy, he wants to play with dolls. If your child is a girl, she wants to play with guns and trucks. BUT another parent(s) takes away your child's toys and tells you that it is wrong. How do you act? What do you say to them? The other parent is very loud.

Group Members:

Role-play Scenario:

Dialogue:

Remember:

- You must use 5-10 vocabulary words.
- Every member must talk.
- Role-plays should be 1-2 minutes long.
- Use loud, clear voices during the performance.